DETAILED ACTIONDrawings

The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the "separate container containing an inflating medium" in claim 5 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 1 and consequently dependent claims 2-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 recites the limitation "the irrigation fluid" in line 3. Claim 1 further recites the limitation "the user" in line 5. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1, 2, 4, 5, 21 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Falconer (US 2003/0073963). Falconer discloses device substantially as claimed including an irrigation system (Fig. 1) for irrigating liquid (abstract), a probe (7) for arrangement in a user, conduit means (6) for conducting the irrigating fluid from the reservoir (1) to the probe, and a fixation member (Figs. 1 and 4, 14) for fixation of the probe in the user, characterized in that pumping means (5) are provided for pumping gas into the reservoir to transfer the irrigating liquid from the reservoir to the probe, that the fixation member includes an inflatable cuff (Fig. 4, 14). While the control unit claimed may be interpreted as being the person actuating the device, Falconer does not disclose an automatic control unit which may be set in at least a cuff inflating position and a liquid transferring position. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have made the system an automatic system with control unit, since it has been held that broadly providing a mechanical or automatic means to replace manual activity which has accomplished the same result involves only routine skill in the art. In re Venner, 120 USPQ 192.

In reference to claim 2, Falconer discloses that the control unit comprises at least two elements (5 and 15) that may be moved with respect to each other in at least said cuff inflating and liquid transferring positions.

In reference to claim 4, Falconer discloses that the conduit means includes an irrigating liquid conducting tube (6) connecting the reservoir (1) with the probe (7), and at least one gas conducting tube (Fig. 4, 22) connecting the control unit with the reservoir.

In reference to claim 5, Falconer discloses that the irrigation system further comprises a separate container (5) containing an inflating medium (the air in 5 is transferred to the reservoir container (2) which compresses the liquid within the reservoir (1)).

In reference to claim 21, Falconer discloses that the pumping means (5) is a manually operated pump (Fig. 1) such as a bulb.

In reference to claim 22, Falconer discloses the device substantially as claimed including the pumping means (5), however, Falconer does not disclose that the pumping means is a powered pump. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have made the manual pumping means an automatic/powered pumping means, since it has been held that broadly providing a mechanical or automatic means to replace manual activity which has accomplished the same result involves only routine skill in the art. In re Venner, 120 USPQ 192.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3, 6-20 and 23-25 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
